Welcome

if you believe nothing is always what's left after a while, as I did,

If you believe you have this collection of ungiven gifts, as I do (right here behind the silence and the averted eyes)

If you believe an afternoon can collapse into strange privacies-- how in your backyard, for example, the An emotion of Plural noun can be suddenly overwhelming,

and in the distance

the clear goddamn of thunder personal, like a voice,

If you believe there's no correct response to death, as I do; that even in grief

(where I've sat making plans) there are Adjective corners of joy

If your body sometimes is a light switch in a house of insomniacs

If you can feel yourself straining to be yourself every waking minute

If, as I am, you are almost smiling . . .
