Be our roommate

Please fill in this madlib to help us get to know you better:

Dear           Proper Noun          ,

I'm sorry to let you know that I forgot to take out the           Noun           yesterday. My           Noun           went off at 3:

00 and I overslept. I really need to get to work, so I made a           Adjective           pot of           Noun          .

Unfortunately, I slipped on           Noun           and I dropped the           Adjective                     Noun           and it broke. That left a real mess on the floor, which I tried to clean up by using your           Noun          . That didn't go so well; I realized I           Verb - Base Form           your           Noun           and thought I should           Verb - Base Form           them. I stuffed everything into the           Noun           machine in the basement, but I think I overloaded it- it jammed up and started an electrical fire that burned down the whole           Noun          . I did the best I could, I saved two of the house

          Noun           and three           Noun          .

I know you're probably upset with me, but hey, remember all the           Adjective           times we had? I think we can work past this. In the meantime, you can both come stay with me in my           Adjective                     Noun           under the           Proper Noun           Ave. bridge. It's really not that bad, and it's right next to the           Noun          .

Hope to see you when you get out of the           Noun          !

Fondly, Your Proper Noun.
