Texas Cultural MadLib

Come one, come all to Texas! A _____<sup>Noun</sup> of opportunity and a giant melting pot of culture, Texas is home to tons of _____<sup>Noun - Plural</sup> from around the world. Many cities, like Fredericksburg and Boerne are based around the German culture. Both of these cities originated in the 1800s during a time of plentiful migration to the United States. Boerne has an _____<sup>Adjective</sup> Berges Fest that celebrates the German culture of the _____<sup>Adjective</sup> city. Celebrating culture is an important part of being a Texan!

In San Antonio, the Mexican culture is the largest, with Fiesta taking up a whole eleven days in April. During that time, there are parades, the crowing of Miss Fiesta and her court, lots of good Mexican food, concerts, art shows, festivals, and pageants. Fiesta is a good time for us to _____<sup>Verb</sup> about where we came from and who we are as _____<sup>Noun - Plural</sup> in San Antonio.

Also in San Antonio, the month of February brings us the annual Stock Show and Rodeo. During this time we learn about American cowboy life and the different events that _____<sup>Noun - Plural</sup> get to enjoy. Some of these are cattle roping, barrel racing, bull riding, and other events featuring some wild and some domestic steer, horses, and sheep. The hill country and plains regions take up a big part of our state, so experiencing cowboy culture is important! Maybe someone in your own _____<sup>Noun</sup> used to work on a ranch or helped tend to _____<sup>Adjective</sup> animals in Texas.

Throughout all of the little cities in Texas, many of them _____<sup>Pronoun</sup> what it is that their city does best. In Poteet, you will find the Strawberry Festival each April. In Luling, you will find the Watermelon Thump each June. The city of Floresville has a Peanut Festival each October. All of these cities are farm _____<sup>Noun - Plural</sup> and have a festival celebrating the hard _____<sup>Noun</sup> that they do all year long to _____<sup>Verb</sup> their crops. These festivals always feature fun events like Watermelon Seed spitting contests and Strawberry pie eating. Texas seems to have something for just about everyone! Celebrations and festivals will always be a _____<sup>Verb - Base Form</sup> part of what we do here in our state. Whether they celebrate culture and where the people of a city originally came from, or what crop a city is known for growing and harvesting, festivals are meant for _____<sup>Noun</sup> to enjoy! Next time you see an advertisement for one, stop on by and have a little fun!
