farmers daughter

A farmer's daughter was carrying her of from the to the , when she fell to . "The for which this will be sold, will buy at least three hundred The eggs, allowing for all mishaps, will two hundred and fifty . The will become ready for the market when poultry will fetch the highest price, so that by the end of the year I shall have enough from my share to buy a new gown. In this dress I will to the parties, where all the will propose to me, but I will my and refuse them every one."
At this moment she tossed her in unison with her thoughts, when down fell the pail to the ground, and all her schemes perished in a moment.
