My First Day at KIPP

There they were. Standing at the _____ Animal (plural) _____. Most were smiling, a few had _____ Adjective _____ expressions on their faces. I knew it. My _____ Adjective _____ school days have officially ended. At first, I was a little intimidated. As I saw the other students who looked as nervous as I felt, I began to relax. Maybe this wouldn't be so bad? After a tasty breakfast of _____ Animal (plural) _____ and _____ Animal _____, we walked quiet as _____ Noun _____ to the school gym. Inside of the gym, it felt like the _____ Location _____ pole! Have these people ever heard of a _____ Noun _____? Geez! It was so _____ Noun _____ that my nose began to run. No, I don't think you understand. It was so cold not only did my _____ Noun _____ begin to run, but it froze in a crusty mess on my face! So there I was, trying to rub the crust off of my _____ Noun _____ and in walks a lady with an afro. They call her _____ Proper Noun _____. She smiles, but I secretly think she might be a little _____ Adjective _____. Then walks in a giant. They call him Mr. _____ Proper Noun _____. I didn't know KIPP had giants as teachers! For the rest of the day, all I remember is having to walk in _____ Adjective _____ silent, straight _____ Noun - Plural _____. We ate _____ Noun _____ in the cafeteria for lunch. And before I knew it, school was over. I survived my first day at KIPP. And it wasn't that bad. Go figure!
