Another Day at the Zoo

"Hey Sarah," Danny asked "would you care to accompany me to the zoo today?" "Sure, I bet that would be so _____^{Adjective}!" "Great, so I'll meet you there around lunchtime?" He asked. "Absolutely, I can't wait!" She _____^{Adverb} replied. Danny hurled the phone into the air with excitement, and yelled _____^{Exclamation}! He went to his closet, to decide what he would wear for their special date. First, he selected a/an _____^{Adjective} shirt, but put it back because it looked too feminine. He ended up choosing a bro tank, hoping that Sarah would love it. Finally, he ran to his car, and drove to the zoo. " _____^{Greeting}!" Sarah shouted when she saw Danny. Danny turned around and _____^{Verb - Past Tense} to Sarah, wrapping her up in a bear hug. "I am so _____^{Emotion} to see you!" He sweetly whispered. "Me too!" She whispered back. "Do you want to go see the _____^{Animal (plural)} first?" He asked her. "I would love to!" She responded. "By the way Danny, I think your shirt is _____^{Adjective}!" Danny blushed. They put their _____^{Body Part Plural} together, and walked together to the first exhibit. Unfortunately, the _____^{Animal} didn't appear to be out today. "What the _____^{Noun}!" Danny shouted. "Sorry, excuse my language, but how could the Koalas not be out today?" Sarah looked at him _____^{Adverb}, because they weren't even at the Koala exhibit. She figured he had just gone crazy from being out in the sun. As he peered around the exhibit, looking for any sign of an animal, his _____^{Part of Body} brushed against hers. She _____^{Verb - Past Tense}, and moved closer to him. Just as this happened though, the _____^{Animal} appeared, and began _____^{Verb - Present ends in ING} towards them.
