

Mad Lib

1. Proper Noun
2. Noun
3. Noun
4. Possessive Singular Noun
5. Noun
6. Noun
7. Noun
8. Noun - Plural
9. Noun
10. Noun
11. Noun
12. Noun
13. Noun
14. Noun
15. Noun
16. Noun
17. Noun - Plural
18. Noun
19. Noun
20. Noun
21. Possessive Singular Noun
22. Noun
23. Noun

- 24. Noun
- 25. Noun
- 26. Noun
- 27. Proper Noun
- 28. Noun
- 29. Noun
- 30. Proper Noun
- 31. Proper Noun
- 32. Noun

Mad Lib

When _____ Proper Noun woke up her first thought was "Finally it's my birthday," .Now all she could picture was the huge birthday _____ Noun that her _____ Noun would buy, her _____ possessive singular noun amazing _____ Noun chip _____ Noun, and of course the tons of _____ Noun that her _____ Noun - Plural and _____ Noun would get her. She quickly pulled off her striped _____ Noun, got out of _____ Noun, and put on her favorite _____ Noun. She rushed out of her _____ Noun and stopped to inhale the sweet smell of _____ Noun, but when she sniffed, the _____ Noun there was no sweet smell. Had her _____ Noun forgot to make the _____ Noun - Plural? She probably did her _____ Noun was a CEO and was always on the _____ Noun. Before she went down _____ Noun, she knocked on her _____ possessive singular noun _____ Noun. He didn't answer, so she went down the _____ Noun, skimming the marble _____ Noun with her hand as she descended .When she got to the _____ Noun her _____ Noun was sitting at _____ Proper Noun dining room _____ Noun on the phone, and her _____ Noun _____ Proper Noun was eating _____ Proper Noun _____ Noun and working on a school project that was probably due today. Jenna scanned the dining room and the kitchen, no pancakes no balloons. It was as if it was just an ordinary day, even the calendar that usually had birthdays marked on it was blank. Did they really forget? Her mother was usually so organized that she had every second of her day planned on her schedule. They were both so busy that they didn't even bother to say Happy Birthday. This wasn't right they always remembered. A light bulb went off in her head of course they were planning a surprise party .She asked, "Are you guys planning anything today." Her Mom said "No" then her mom and her brother both blushed. Ha, she caught them; all three of them were the worst liars and always blushed when they lied. I guess they didn't forget after all.