Patrick Henry Addresses the Virginia Delegation

Sir, we are not Adjective, if we make a proper use of the means which the God of Noun hath placed in our Noun. Three millions of people, armed in the holy cause of Noun, and in such a country as that which we possess, are Adjective by any force which our enemy can send against us. Besides, sir, we shall not fight our Noun - Plural alone. There is a just Proper Noun who presides over the destinies of nations, and who will raise up Noun - Plural to fight our battles for us.

The battle, sir, is not to the Adjective alone; it is to the vigilant, the active, the Adjective. Besides, sir, we have no election. If we were base enough to desire it, it is now too late to Verb - Base Form from the contest. There is no retreat but in submission and slavery! Our chains are forged! Their Verb - Present ends in ING may be heard on the plains of Boston! The war is inevitable -- and let it come! I repeat it, sir, let it come !

It is in vain, sir, to extenuate the matter. Gentlemen may Verb - Base Form, "Peace! Peace!" -- but there is no peace. The war is actually begun! The next gale that sweeps from the Noun will bring to our Noun - Plural the clash of resounding arms! Our brethren are already in the Noun! Why stand we here idle? What is it that Proper Noun - Plural wish? What would they have? Is life so dear, or peace so sweet , as to be purchased at the price of chains and Noun? Forbid it, Adjective God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me Noun, or give me Noun! ©2025 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.
