

Mya Soukaseum-Mad Lib

1. Adjective
2. Noun - Plural
3. Adjective
4. Adjective
5. Pronoun
6. Coordinating Conjunction
7. Adverb
8. Adjective - Superlative
9. Interjection
10. Noun
11. Coordinating Conjunction
12. Pronoun
13. Verb - Past Tense
14. Adjective
15. Preposition
16. Preposition Or Subordinating Conjunction
17. Interjection
18. Adjective
19. Adverb
20. Verb - Past Tense

Mya Soukaseum-Mad Lib

There was a family that was very close and Adjective. There were three children, three Noun - Plural, and one cat in the family. The family cat was something of a devil. Those beady, Adjective eyes, that flicking, Adjective tail, and that smug look he always had on his face. Pronoun would always bite the children or eat food off the table when nobody was looking. Nobody liked the poor, ugly thing because it did not want to be liked. He had been through many adventures, such as nearly drowning in a bath tub, being dropped on the concrete many times, Coordinating conjunction having his tail run over by their grandfather's old Chrysler. However the cat got hurt, he never wanted to die. It seemed as if he had nine lives. It was summer vacation and the family was at their grandparent's house. One day however, it seemed as if the cat would have died finally. The children were bouncing on their grandparent's trampoline when the cat, very Adverb, snuck into the trampoline and bit the Adjective - Superlative child on the nose! "Oh mom, he's got my face!" The other two girls tried to pry the cat off their brother, but the cat wouldn't budge. "The devils got me! interjection!" Frantic, the sisters thought that bouncing on the Noun would get the cat to loosen its grip. However, it only made the cat bite down harder. They continued bouncing and finally, the cat lost its balance Coordinating conjunction stumbled in the middle of the trampoline. The brother wanted to run away and cover his disgusting, bleeding face, but Pronoun wanted revenge even more. The children closed the trampoline door and Verb - Past Tense the poor, Adjective cat. They didn't care if he died, they only wanted revenge. They bounced the cat high above their heads and all they thought about was no mercy . On the final and highest jump, the kids came flying Preposition on the trampoline and the cat went flying,

right _____ Preposition or subordinating conjunction _____ of the trampoline. The children thought the cat would fall on his face and run away, but he kept on going. The children were astonished at the cat as he was twisting and flailing in the air. " _____ Interjection _____!", screeched the cat as he flew and flipped through the air. Finally, the children heard a thud and an _____ Adjective _____ silence followed. They all rushed quickly out of the trampoline and searched for the cat. He seemed to be nowhere in the yard, when finally, they spotted him. The cat was lying on the diving board of the pool, motionless. The children huddled around the cat and watched for a long time, hoping that there would be some sign of life. After what seemed like forever, the cat twitched, made a hissing noise, and got up. The cat glared at the children and _____ Adverb _____ _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ away. It seemed that on that day, the cat lost another one of its nine lives and its pride.