Once upon a time down on an old farm, lived a duck family, and _____ Proper Noun _____ Duck had been sitting on a clutch of new eggs. One nice morning, the eggs hatched and out popped six chirpy ducklings. But one egg was bigger than the rest, and it didn't hatch. Mother Duck couldn't recall laying that seventh egg. How did it get there ? TOCK! TOCK! The little prisoner was pecking inside his shell.

"Did I count the eggs wrongly?" _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ Duck wondered. But before she had time to think about it, the last egg finally hatched. A strange looking duckling with gray feathers that should have been yellow gazed at a worried mother. The ducklings grew quickly, but Mother Duck had a secret worry.

"I can't understand how _____ Noun _____ ugly duckling can be one of mine!" she said to herself, shaking her head as she looked at her last born. Well, the gray duckling certainly wasn't pretty, and since he ate far more than his brothers, he was outgrowing them. As the days _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ by, the poor ugly duckling became more and more unhappy. His brothers didn't want to play with him, he was so clumsy, and all the farmyard folks _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ laughed at him. He felt sad and lonely, while Mother Duck did her best to console him.

"Poor little ugly _____ Modal _____!" she would say. "Why are you so different from the others?" And the ugly duckling felt worse than ever. He secretly wept at night. He felt nobody wanted him.

"Nobody loves me, they all tease me! Why am I different from my brothers?"

Then one day, at sunrise, he _____ Preposition or subordinating conjunction _____ away from the farmyard. He stopped at a pond and began to question all the other birds. "Do you know of any ducklings with gray feathers like mine?" But everyone shook their heads in scorn.

"We don't know anyone as ugly as you." The ugly _____ Adverb _____ did not lose heart, however, and kept on making inquiries. He went to another pond, where a pair of large geese gave him the same answer to his question . _____ Proper Noun _____ more, they warned him: "Don't stay here! Go away! It's _____ Adjective _____. There are men with guns around here!" The _____ Noun _____ was sorry he had ever left the farmyard.

Then one day, his _____ Pronoun _____ took him near an old countrywoman's cottage. Thinking he was a stray goose , she caught him.

"I'll put this in a hutch. I hope it's a female and lays plenty of eggs!" said the old woman, whose eyesight was poor. But the ugly _____ Noun _____ laid not a single egg. The hen kept _____ Verb - Present Tense _____ him.

"Just wait! If you don't lay eggs, the old _____ Noun _____ will wring your neck and pop you into the pot!" And the cat chipped in: "Hee! Hee! I hope the woman cooks you, then I can gnaw at your bones!" _____ Determiner _____ ugly duckling was so scared that he lost his _____ Noun _____, though the old woman kept stuffing him with food and grumbling: "If you won't lay eggs, at _____ Adjective - Superlative _____ hurry up and get plump!"

"Oh, dear me!" _____ Adverb _____ the now terrified duckling. "I'll die of fright first! And I did so hope someone would love me!"

Then one night, finding the hutch door _____ Pronoun _____, he escaped. Once again he was all alone. He fled as far away as he could, and at dawn, he found himself in a thick bed of reeds. "If nobody wants me, I'll hid here forever." There was plenty a food, and the duckling began to feel a little happier, though he was lonely. One day at sunrise, he saw a flight of beautiful birds wing overhead. White, with long slender necks, yellow beaks and large wings, they were migrating south.

"If only I could look like them, just for a day!" said the duckling, admiringly. Winter came and the water in the reed bed _____ Verb - Past Participle _____. The poor duckling left home to seek food in the snow. He dropped exhausted to the ground, but a farmer found him and put him in his big jacket pocket.

"I'll take him home to my children. They'll look after him. Poor thing, he's frozen!" The duckling was showered with kindly care at the farmer's house. In this way, the ugly duckling was able to survive the bitterly cold winter.

However,

by springtime, he had grown so big that the farmer decided: "I'll set him free by the pond!" That was when the duckling saw himself mirrored in the water.

"Goodness! How I've changed! I hardly recognize myself!" The flight of swans winged north again and glided on to the pond. When the duckling saw them, he realized he was one of their kind, and soon made friends.

"We're swans like you!" they said, warmly. "Where have you been hiding?"

"It's a long story," replied the young swan, still astounded. Now, he swam majestically with his fellow swans.

One day, he heard children on the river bank exclaim: "Look at that young swan! He's the finest of them all!"

And he almost burst with happiness.
