

The Magic Mirror

1. Pronoun
2. Adjective
3. Conjunction
4. Adverb
5. Noun
6. Noun
7. Preposition
8. Conjunction
9. Interjection
10. Adjective
11. Verb - Past Tense
12. Pronoun
13. Verb - Past Tense
14. Adverb
15. Preposition
16. Interjection

The Magic Mirror

One cold December day, a little girl was wandering through town when she saw a mysterious little shop.

Pronoun felt very curious so she decided to go inside. As soon as the little girl stepped into the store, her eyes became wide and she gasped. All around the room there were Adjective mirrors of all shapes Conjunction sizes. She walked around the room, looking into each mirror Adverb. In all of them she saw a normal reflection, except for a very tall mirror in the corner. When the little girl looked into the mirror, she was speechless. The image in the mirror showed the exact opposite of the original reflection. Her Noun was neon green and her Noun was purple! The little girl touched the mirror's shiny reflection, and it rippled like water. Feeling very curious, she stepped Preposition the mirror Conjunction into a strange new world. "Interjection!" she exclaimed. "Everything is backwards!"

The first thing the little girl noticed was that the rest of the mirrors and the door were upside down. She couldn't wait to explore, so she stepped outside. The busy street seemed the same as usual, only the cars were driving backwards! The little girl was fascinated, and began to cross the street when the crosswalk sign turned green. She forgot that since this world is opposite, she should've crossed on red. Cars whizzed past the girl as she stood in the middle of the street, wondering why they were still driving. She didn't realize what she did wrong until four Adjective cars screeched to a stop in front of her. As she stood there confused, four police officers Verb - Past Tense out, only their badges said "Ecilop". Pronoun started shouting violently at the little girl in a language she didn't understand, until she realized it was English backwards. The little girl panicked. She Verb - Past Tense back to the sidewalk and into the strange store and Adverb jumped back the tall mirror in the corner. She opened her eyes and looked around. Everything was back to normal. "

Preposition

Interjection!" the little girl sighed in relief as she left the store, crossed the street on GREEN, and ran the rest of the way home.