Niko

When I was ten years old I got a letter from a mysterious person. It didn't make any sense at the time Conjunction I guess that I was too Adjective to understand. It read...

"When will you realize that everything that you ever experienced was a lie? How many times have I given you and everyone else the same _____?"

At first I thought it was all just a silly joke that any person would do to a young girl but now I've finally realized, after two years, that everything actually was a lie. Everything started to fall into place on the day that I was given the freedom to go out and look at the cherry blossoms that were nearby my home.

I was Verb - Base Form sitting on the edge of the lake that was lined with the Adjective trees when I saw the Emperor of my country, Japan, come up to me. I ______ stood up and _______ verb - Base Form ______.

He smiled and motioned for me to sit down. He came over and sat _______ next to me.

I didn't know why he had chosen me to sit _______ to or why he didn't have any ______ with him but I just decided to be polite and not worry about it.

" May I ask what your name is?" ______ asked me.

" My name is Niko." I answered smiling back at _______.

" That's a wonderful name. It stands for 'smile', right?"

" Yes, Pronoun."

" It's very Adjective."

" Thank you."

Then

I realized why he sat next to me and why he was asking me these things. But I think it makes sense to just stay Conjunction I really don't care. If it means something serious I guess I'll just have to treat everyday like it's my last. The thing is... is that a good thing?
