Gel Tears

During a school lunch, my 4th grade year, a of mean boys sat at a table together. Every day they about really uninteresting things because they thought they were better than everyone else
. On that day, I decided to really get them going, so I put a really funny note on their table before they sat down.
The note said, "Dear 4th grade boys who sit at this table, being cool is not everything. Maybe you should wear less in your hair because it seems to be leaking into your head." When the boys sat down at their table and the note, one started to cry and when he cried, his tears were Adjective and green like his gel.
