The World Has Gone Mad

What has happened when _____ Noun - Plural have dogs afraid of them. Even though dogs are bigger than cats that doesn't seem to matter to them. Carter is one of those cats that thinks _____ Pronoun is better than _____ Noun - Plural. He might even think they are dumb. The first time this happened Carter who had been playing with his toy when Bella came in and next thing you know there was what looked like a _____ Adjective ball of fur landing on my dresser. Bella who ended up _____ Verb - Present ends in ING up the steps, while I yelled " _____ interjection! You get back here!", had to be taking down stairs _____ Conjunction when we were doing so I end up screaming _____ interjection, when he was about to jump on _____ Pronoun _____ Adverb. That is what made me think that Carter is becoming a big, mean bully. Then there is puppy who is afraid of a cat. This cat often chases the puppy while the puppy _____ Verb - Present ends in S for its life. Then there is one more cat that I know of that is not afraid of a dog. The dog would, as I thought, never back down to a cat, did. It all happened when he met this cat, when the cat saw him did not even run, just walked by. The next time the cat hit him _____ Conjunction then the dog just walked away _____ Adverb. You know what is weird all the cats were almost the same they were all overweight and _____ Adjective.
