The cat attack

I was at the agora on a Adjective day. My friends and I were talking about the olympic games we had yesterday. All of a sudden, a commotion occurred. People were running away screaming. We had no idea what was happening. I found out in the Adjective possible way. Three Adjective Adjective cats cornered me against a Food cart. They were getting really close now, only about Number feet away. One of them started ripping at my chiton. My friends were running away now. "Alyssasis? Madondious? Where are you guys going???" I yelled, "Sorry Ginanium," Verb - Base Form Alyssasis, "I've got three kids to be there for!" "And i just don't want to die!" Exclaimed Madondious. I was doomed. The cats were only about Number feet away now. And my friends had just left me to me attacked by three vicious beasts. I could sense they were about to Verb - Base Form. To my surprise, and relief, a Noun came up behind the cats and stabbed all three of the cats with a long Verb - Base Form knife. The slowly fell to the ground with liquid dripping from their backs. I thanked the Noun and invited him and his family to my house to have fish and carrots for dinner that night.
