To giggle, or not to giggle, THAT is the question!

Once upon a Noun, in a far off Noun named Woodcliff Lake, Place, lived a girl who was obsessed with Adjective blue and selfies. She had the most Adjective dimples and her Julia Last Name of a Person impression was the best in all the land. She had such a Adjective family and specifically she really liked this one cousin, named Melanie. They had grown up together, well not together, because Melanie is a lot older than her, but anyway... Once when Melanie was in Number grade she told this adorably dimply cousin of hers about Nationality kissing! As her cousin was only in kindergarten at the time, she ran and told all of her Noun - Plural who told their mommies and got Melanie into trouble with her favorite Aunt, First Name of a Person. Eventually Melanie got over it and forgave her cousin because she is Adjective. As they grew up they got Adverb - Comparative and Repeat Last Adverb - Comparative and it culminated in a wild tour of Continent this past summer. The memories they made there will surely last a Amount of Time, including, but not limited to: when Melanie accidentally Verb - Past Tense her cousin's RailPass and her cousin thought she lost it and tried not to freak out, and when Melanie's cousin performed for tourists on the top of the Noun of the Old City of Dubrovnik (famously known as the site of King's Landing in the hit Home Box Office series Game of Noun - Plural) as her alter ego, Benonce AKA First Name of a Person Fierce. Basically, the Noun of the story is that Melanie decided that as she approached the most Adjective day of her Noun, she couldn't imagine it without her dimply, selfie loving, Benonce obsessed, electric blue wearing Noun. So, Melanie thought what better way to make my wedding day even more Adjective, than to have my Adjective cousin as a Noun.

Yes, that's it! The Adjective solution. Name of a Candy, the fresh-maker.

So, Full Name of a Person , will you please do me the Noun of being my Proper Noun as I
