Letter to my Love

My Adjective - Ends in EST Candace,

I love you more than a Noun loves Noun. Every morning we are together I gaze into your eyes and become lost in your Location, and fall deeper and deeper in love with you. I hope that I never have to be without you, not even for a second. Your presence is that of Noun, confirming my belief that some great power is Verb - Present ends in ING over me, making sure that I have the Adjective - Ends in EST companion to journey through life with. I am confident that I can overcome any Noun that life throws at me, as long as I have Full Name of a Person to stand by side. You are the only Noun that makes me feel as though all my other problems have Verb - Past Tense, and that my life is free of woes. In the words of the urban poet Usher, "I've got bad."

One day I hope that we will be able to travel the world together, and see everything that this beautiful earth has to offer. I imagine that nothing compares to your Adjective, but I would like to see the other seven Noun - Plural of the world. I miss the scent of your Noun, and the soft and silky touch of your Noun. I have had trouble falling asleep without you by my side to hold me and be my little spoon. However, the thought of being reunited with you in less than Number weeks provides me with the hope than my Part of Body will soon be full again.

can only hope that the hours feel like minutes in the coming days, and our time apart is Adjective. Upon your return, I would be most thankful if we could go Noun shopping, and pop some Noun - Plural for less than twenty dollars. We may then disrobe and put on our new outfits, and have a Adjective candle lit dinner for two. While you are gone, I will be preparing the most Adjective dinner course you have ever eaten.

Please tell your Aunt Flo that she cannot overstay her welcome once you arrive back in the states. I understand that she is a Adjective guest, but would really enjoy spending some Adjective time with you. I will put on some Adjective R&B music, light some Adjective candles, and pull out any Adjective accessories I have in my bedside drawer. I've heard that February is the season for Barry White .

Every day we are apart I realize how much I love you, and miss your Noun in my life. I wait Adverb - Ends in LY for your return, and know that we will be together once again in the near future. I trust you will have an Adjective time in Africa, and anticipate that you will tell me some Adjective stories when you return.

Yours truly and always,

Andrew
