Making ART

Once upon a time there was this           Noun           named           Proper Noun          . He loved to make           Noun          .

But, there was a problem. He didn't have the           Noun           that he wanted. He asked all his           Noun           if they had the           Noun                     Noun          . But, none of his           Noun           had the           Noun                     Noun                     Noun          . He asked his           Proper Noun           if he could borrow some of her           Noun           but she said no. When his           Noun           came home he asked his           Proper Noun           if he had any money and he said no. When his           Proper Noun           came home from his           Noun                     Noun          ,           Proper Noun           asked his           Noun          ,           Proper Noun           if he had any money he said no. When his           Noun           came home from, another           Noun                     Noun          ,           Proper Noun           asked if she had any money and she said, no! But, he had four dollars he found in his           Noun          , down under his favorite           Noun                     Noun           named           Proper Noun          . So, he went to the           Noun                     Noun          , he asked if they had any           Noun                     Noun          , they said, nooooo. So           Proper Noun           went to another           Noun          , and he asked them do you have any           Noun                     Noun          , I could borrow and they said, YES!! Finally           Proper Noun           had found his long lost           Noun                     Noun          .
