

The Apple and the Arrow

1. Adjective
2. Noun
3. Noun
4. Adjective
5. Number
6. Proper Noun
7. Noun
8. Verb - Past Tense
9. Noun
10. Noun
11. Noun
12. Noun
13. Noun
14. Verb
15. Verb - Base Form
16. Noun
17. Verb - Present Ends In S
18. Verb
19. Verb
20. Noun
21. Noun
22. Noun
23. Noun

24. Noun

25. Verb - Present Ends In Ing

26. Noun

27. Verb - Present Ends In S

The Apple and the Arrow

_____ Adjective is the legend of William Tell, the great bowman who shot an _____ Noun through an _____ Noun that rested on the head of his son. What makes this version of the story so _____ Adjective is the fact that it is told from that point of view. Walter Tell is _____ Number years old when his mother, Hedvig, considers him old enough to hear of the troubles that have befallen their Alpine homeland of Uri. It is the Middle Ages and the land that would someday be known as _____ Proper Noun is under the rule of Albrecht of Austria, a ruthless _____ Noun, who has _____ Verb - Past Tense an even more ruthless _____ Noun named Gessler to maintain _____ Noun and _____ Noun over the region. Hedvig tells the young Walter that his _____ Noun, William Tell, is involved in a secret _____ Noun to _____ Verb with the neighboring lands and _____ Verb - Base Form against Gessler and the Austrian rule he represents.

Walter accompanies his father to the nearby _____ Noun of Altdorf, where the elder Tell is suddenly taken prisoner by Gessler and his men. Gessler _____ Verb - Present ends in S his soldiers to _____ Verb Walter to a tree and then demands that William Tell _____ Verb an _____ Noun through the _____ Noun placed on the boy's _____ Noun. Walter finds his courage in his father's _____ Noun. He completely trusts in his father's abilities and convinces him to pull back his _____ Noun and fire. Even after _____ Verb - Present ends in _____ ING the _____ Noun, William Tell is taken away by Gessler and his men. But he eventually _____ Verb - Present ends in S his way free and Walter becomes the proud witness of a father who fights for what he knows is right.