

The Little Chicken

1. Verb - Present Ends In Ing
2. Noun

The Little Chicken

Once upon a time, there was a lonely baby chicken Verb - Present ends in ING along the old Noun road. His name is Bob and his mother recently disappeared. One night she is there and the next morning, she's gone. Bob's brother Bobby recently disappeared too. He hasn't even hatched yet. "Where do I go, or what do I do?" said Bob. He has no family or friends to help him. A few hours into his lonely journey, he came upon the princess of this fair land. Her name was Rosy. She asked the lonely chicken "Where are you going, shouldn't you be at the farm?" Bob replied with "I don't know where I'm going. I have no more family, my mother and brother are gone, and I have no friends left." The princess felt very bad for him. Rosy decided to talk to her father King Ronald. He sent them to seek the genie in the woods. Bob and Rosy quickly ran towards the edge of the woods. They found the magical lamp and rubbed it. Out came the genie. The princess asked her to help Bob with his predicament. The genie was happy to help. She gave three wishes for Bob. When Bob decided to use one, his wish will come true. His first wish was to know where his mother went. The genie showed a video of her in a pot being cooked. Before making another breath, he scurried back to the farm. He opened the door, and saw a farmer making chicken pot pie out of her. Bob was so furious, he knocked everything over. After his mother escaped through the window, he found his brother, hatched on the floor squeaking with all his might. Bob grabbed him and they headed out the door. They all thanked the princess, the genie, and King Ronald. Two years later, they live happily in a new farm and a Turkey actually moved in. They take a breath in relief because at that time, it's Thanksgiving. Now basically, when you're in a predicament, it's okay to ask for help.

