We thought our trip to the museum would be boring, but we were wrong. We all wanted to _____ Verb but Mr. Feeny said we had to come here instead. After we handed our _____ Noun - Plural to _____ Proper Noun at the door, we were led into the museum's gallery. The first things I noticed were the mummy cases against the _____ Noun. Why were there mummy cases in the gallery?

While we waited for our guide, Mr. Feeny told us how the pharaohs always placed a large _____ Noun in their mummy cases to protect them from intruders. _____ Proper Noun and I got a little _____ Adjective hearing this. There were, after all, _____ Adjective mummy cases in the room with us.

Suddenly we heard a(n) _____ Noun sound coming from inside one of the mummy cases. "Eheu!!" _____ Proper Noun and I screamed at the same time.

"Nothing to worry about," said Mr. Feeny calmly. "I'm sure it's just the wind." Just then one of the mummy cases _____ verb open. Out _____ verb an enormous _____ verb covered with _____ Noun - Plural. Then he started to _____ Verb Just as I was about to run from the room, the noun threw off the noun and howled, "April Fools!" It was Magistra!

We had forgotten that it was April first, but I guess Mr. Feeny and Magistra had not.
