

In the Jungle

1. Proper Noun
-

In the Jungle

There once was a Proper Noun. The monkey's name is Micheal. He lived in the big jungle with all the other animals. It was a fun place to live but sometimes it got very scary. His best friends were Ellie the elephant, Ted the tiger, and Freddie the frog. Everyday the four of them explored the jungle. Ted and his friends were very troublesome. They constantly got lost and needed help from all the older animals. Especially the day when the humans came to visit. They were roaming the jungle like a normal day. When they started hearing this roaring sound that kept getting louder. Then they saw the blinding lights of a jeep filled with humans. They all started running towards their home as fast as they could. Once they got to the area where they all lived they started shouting for help and all the elders came over to see what the commotion was. When the jeep came to a halt in front of them all. They all stared at the humans as the humans stared at them. Everyone was thinking this was the end to their normal lives in the jungle. But it turned out the humans only wanted pictures of them in their "natural" habitats. After they got the pictures they left the animals to live their lives in the jungle. Micheal the monkey, Ellie the elephant, Ted the tiger, and Freddie the frog had another day of exploring and adventures to look forward too.