l.A.

Verb - Past Tense
 Verb - Past Tense

I.A.

There once was a shy kid who went to school. He found s book on the floor. When he got into class he asked " who's book is this?" "not mine!", said Steven. " not mine either" said everyone else. So he just left in on the table
. When the teacher verb_Past Tense in and said " Good morning class! oh who's book is this?" " We don't know" said Mai. " Chase found in " " ok" said Mrs. Smith. " What number is it?" asked Chase. " its number 13"
" that's my number!" said Tom. " then it belongs to you!" said Mrs. Smith. " no it doesn't I don't have this book
!" said Tom. so tom verb_Past Tense in to the the ground. so Mrs. Smith verb_Past Tense it up. Then chase noticed something on the book. it was spelling letters a.l. " it spells a.l." verb_Past Tense chase. " Mrs. Smith can I see that book" asked Chase. " sure". Mrs. smith verb_Past Tense him the book. he verb_Past Tense inside to see what the letters standed for . then the bell rang so the class had to leave.
chase asked if he could borrow the book. when he arrived home he looked up on the computer and told the class that it belonged to Abraham Lincoln.

©2025 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.