~Mad Libs~

_____ doesn't get any kind of allowance and we're too _____ to have real jobs, money is hard to come by. It's not like it was when our parents were kids and they could have a paper route or rob a _____.

My friend told me _____ Verb - 3rd Person Singular Present she gets as much as $_____ everytime she brings home a _____, but she thinks the next one won't get her anymore than 2 bucks, and 2 bucks won't cut it.

_____ said her parents would NEVER pay her, and I don't think _____ Noun - Plural would either. I wouldn't even want to ask them. I can imagine the huge lecture it would start.

At dinner tonight, my parents brought up my grades and maturity _____ Verb - Present ends in S, and I got the impression that maybe they had _____ Noun - Plural brand-new arguments so that I couldn't STICK THEM UP THEIR NOSES like I did the earlier ones.

Dad opened up by saying that I needed math so in case I ever built a rocket or something, I could _____ the right amount of fuel to put on board.

Yup. That was really what he said.

Really.

Mom just _____ at him for a moment before she gently eased Dad into his chair and softly put her finger over his lips.
