Summertime i don't know

I was happy as a           Noun          .           Proper Noun           was over and           Noun           had begun. All my friends had           Verb - Past Participle           throughout the year. Finally i had some time to myself. I couldn't wait to brush my           Noun           for hours on end. Or to pick the           Noun           from under my           Noun - Plural           only to replace it with           Noun          . But i knew there was one thing standing between me and true summer           Noun          . My           Noun          . They were still           Noun           and i knew that because i           Noun           with           Noun          . Somehow they had           Noun           the zombie           Noun          . Yet still they could not get me to eat my           Noun          . Fools. So i built them a           Noun           porch. And i set           Noun           out for them every morning. I did not use           Noun           of any kind. My parents taught me better than that. Or so i thought. Instead i used a shallow           Noun           of           Noun           so they could never           Noun          . I always knew that they had great           Noun           scores. So i took their credit cards and bought myself a           Noun          . Then i           Verb - Past Tense           a live           Noun           to keep me company while i cruised in style. Life is           Adjective           in summertime.
