Snow Day

In Mrs. Martin's classroom, this _____ Adjective December day unfolded as usual. We read our _____ Adjective books and wrote in our _____ Noun, learned about the Donner Party and practiced our _____ Noun. By midmorning we all _____ Verb - Past Tense past the word wall as our eyes _____ Verb - Past Tense out the window. _____ Adjective flakes of _____ Noun fell from the sky

_____ Verb - Present ends in ING quickly across the playground. We had one mission in mind and it involved snow _____ Article of clothing, _____ Article of clothing, _____ Article of clothing and large snowballs. Mrs. Martin agreed the snow which was not too _____ Adjective and not too _____ Adjective was ideal for snowballs. She exclaimed, "Snowball fight on the playground!"

Faster than we could bundle up, Mrs. Martin _____ Verb - Past Tense out the window and _____ Verb - Past Tense through the heavy snow. She called for _____ name of girl in class and _____ Name of boy in _____ class to be team captains and the snowball fight began. We threw _____ number _____ Noun and learned amazing facts too. When _____ name of girl in class throws the snowball it travels 25 mph. A blizzard occurs when you can't see for a 1/4 mile and lasts for 3 hours. Snow is precipitation in the form of flakes of crystalline water ice that falls from clouds. With all that learning Mrs. Martin admits, _____ Noun should be _____ Noun more often.
