The Reboot of Firefly

After years of begging Joss Whedon finally rebooted Firefly, but he decided to make a few changes to keep fans on their toes.

The first thing he did was replace the actress who played Zoey with actor-tress. She and Wash are a divorced, and have a child. They spend most of their time arguing about whether who chore last. This gets on Kaylee's nerves so she spends a lot of time with Jane, activity you do with someone else and complaining loudly about Firefly character something a friend does that annoys you whenever she hears the couple fighting.

Whedon also makes Summer Adjective, replacing Simon's character with a Verb - Present ends in ING Animal. When asked why he demoted Simon's character Whedon stated that people thought Simon was Adjective and Adjective, and that the network was less likely to cancel a show with a Verb - Present ends in ING Animal.

Mal is his old charming and Adjective self, but instead of being a companion Anora is the ship's Adjective new occupation.

But the biggest change that Whedon threw at his fans was the rechristening of the show to name catch phrase!
