

How to Get a Con BF/GF

1. Adjective
2. Noun
3. Adjective
4. Adjective
5. Fandom
6. Adjective
7. Adjective
8. Noun
9. Term Of Endearment
10. Verb
11. Verb - Base Form
12. Noun
13. Adjective
14. Term Of Endearment
15. Noun
16. Verb
17. Verb - Base Form
18. Noun
19. Noun

How to Get a Con BF/GF

If you're one of those _____ Adjective searchers looking for love, what better place to find a significant other than at a Con?

Meeting new people is a snap. Make sure that your _____ Noun is _____ Adjective. It's a great conversation starter and will make you _____ Adjective to all those potential dates.

Find common interests. Do both like _____ fandom? Regale them with epic stories of your devotion to the fandom. Nothing impresses people more than someone who is more _____ Adjective than they are. If you're worried about coming on _____ Adjective, don't, because people need to see your _____ Noun.

Going to panels with your new _____ term of endearment is a great excuse to spend more time together. You can _____ Verb to each other at the back of panels and make each other _____ Verb - Base Form. Bonding in a short space of time is an important step to the next stages of your relationship.

Adventure outside the Con together. This is perfect alone time away from all the hustle and bustle. Share a _____ Noun together. It's the perfect outing to test the _____ Adjective of your new relationship without putting too much pressure on your new _____ term of endearment.

Lastly,

be sure to get their _____^{Noun}. It will let you stay in contact even after the Con magic is over. Call them up and ask them if they want to _____^{Verb}, maybe even have a few _____^{Verb - Base Form} session outside the con. If you're lucky, you'll have a last relationship based on mutual _____^{Noun} and _____^{Noun}.