

okkkkk

1. Noun
2. Noun
3. Noun
4. Noun
5. Noun
6. Noun
7. Noun
8. Noun
9. Noun
10. Noun
11. Noun
12. Noun
13. Noun
14. Noun
15. Noun
16. Noun
17. Noun
18. Noun
19. Noun
20. Noun
21. Noun
22. Noun
23. Noun

24. Noun _____

25. Noun _____

26. Noun _____

27. Noun _____

28. Noun _____

29. Noun _____

30. Noun _____

31. Noun _____

32. Noun _____

okkkkk

micro soft sad _____ Noun _____ midnight 20 reasons why we love _____ Noun _____

Celebrating collaboration online and offline can help _____ Noun _____ frame how we want to live in the _____ Noun _____.

Collectively improve our _____ Noun _____ ...socially conscious _____ Noun _____ understand they are part of a larger _____ Noun _____ and understand that for the _____ Noun _____ to thrive, everyone needs to contribute to the greater good

"To focus on" can be described as seeking "to energize _____ Noun _____" by being present and giving attention and awareness to this " _____ Noun _____".

"Innovation comes from a new _____ Noun _____ of _____ Noun _____ that worked before and to some degree somewhere else. The wider the universe of _____ Noun _____, the more creative the _____ Noun _____."

William Duggan

Be _____ Noun _____, a part of the _____ Noun _____, access it however you need to, because _____ Noun _____, ideas, _____ Noun _____, _____ Noun _____, _____ Noun _____ all matter. We have the _____ Noun _____. This is _____ Noun _____.

_____ Noun _____

is creativity. _____ Noun _____ is a _____ Noun _____, imagine new _____ Noun _____, remix the _____ Noun _____, shadow _____ Noun _____, a _____ Noun _____ in which the _____ Noun _____ can reinvent _____ Noun _____.

How all forms of social _____ Noun _____ and socializing is good for a greater tolerance and collaboration of society and cultures.

People are using social networking in staggering numbers. The world currently spends 110 billion minutes on social networks and blog sites per month. This equates to 22 percent of all time spent online.

Pioneering organizations see opportunity in this shift. They are integrating social collaboration capabilities into their strategies, operations, and processes.

Leading organizations are using social collaboration to delight customers, to drive innovation, and to bring out the best in their business networks and employees.

It's an appealing experience, because participation is "a low investment, with the possibility of a high return."

"Updates available"

"Think tank" (Think thank?)

"Don't judge a link by its hover"

"Loading 5% "

"I hope the light at the end of the tunnel is a computer"

"What is your soft spot?"

"Be bold or italic, never regular"

"The Internet is a very real place"

"My internet"

"We cannot not change the world"

"I hope the light at the end of the tunnel is a computer"

"Innovation comes from a new combination of elements that worked before and to some degree somewhere else.

The wider the universe of elements, the more creative the idea."

whatever

updates available

the internet is a very real place

troll dolls

Create an environment, to explain and celebrate both online and offline forms of collaboration. The goal is to facilitate (and don't forget, celebrate) collaboration through specially curated restrictions; verbal ideas, written ideas and visual ideas.