On the Sonnet- Elizabeth Morales

If by dull rhymes our two syllable language must be chain'd,

And, like name of a God, the Sonnet sweet

Fetter'd, in spite of emotion loveliness,

Let us find, if we must be word that rhymes with constrained,

footwear more interwoven and complete

To fit the naked foot of Poesy:

Let us inspect the Lyre, and weigh the stress

Of every chord, and see what may be gain'd

By body part industrious, and attention meet;

Misers of sound and syllable, no less Than Midas of his coinage, let us be

Emotion of dead leaves in the bay wreath word that rhymes with crown;

So, if we may not let the Muse be antonym of free,

She will be bound with garlands of her own.
