On The Sonnet by John Keats (Halee and Misa)

If by dull _____poetic device our English must be chain'd,

And, like Andromeda, the Sonnet sweet

Fetter'd, in spite of pained _____three syllable plural noun;

Let us find out, if we must be constrain'd,

Sandals more interwoven and _____adjective that rhymes with sweet

To fit the _____adjective foot of poesy;

Let us inspect the lyre, and weigh the stress

Of every chord, and see what may be gain'd

By ear _____four syllable adjective, and attention meet:

Misers of sound and syllable, no less

Than _____famous male of his coinage, let us be

Jealous of dead leaves in the bay wreath crown;

So, if we may not let the Muse be free,

She will be bound with _____metaphor for something that causes restraint of her own.
