

Idioms

1. Noun
2. Verb - Base Form
3. Verb - Present Ends In Ing
4. Noun
5. Noun
6. Adverb
7. Noun
8. Verb - Base Form
9. Noun
10. Adjective
11. Noun
12. Adverb
13. Verb - Base Form
14. Adjective
15. Noun

Idioms

Anthony smiled at the man next to him as he took his seat on stage, eyeing the large plate of hot dogs sitting before him. "Looks like this contest is going to be a piece of _____ Noun," he whispered to his opponent. "You're about to _____ Verb - Base Form my dust."

The older man chuckled at Anthony's scrawny appearance. "Is that so little man? I think you may be _____ Verb - Present ends in ING your chickens before they hatch. That $600 prize will be mine. Ya see, I win this contest every year. The only reason you're here is because my usual opponent is feeling a bit under the _____ Noun. Seeing you apparently entered this contest at the drop of a _____ Noun, I'd say you may be in way _____ Adverb your head."

Anthony did his best to hide his smirk afraid he may let the cat out of the _____ Noun. Instead he humbled himself, reached out to shake his opponent's hand, "you may be right sir, but you may not want to _____ Verb - Base Form to conclusions. They say you should never judge a _____ Noun by it's cover." Anthony thought back to a few months ago when his uncle told him the plan.

"I will fake sick at the last moment, then you volunteer to go up against Mr. _____ Adjective than Life. He may have won every year and although he is a big man, with the right training and preparation, you are a _____ Noun in to win. Why that man may be able to eat a lot of hot dogs, but he's not really playing with a _____ Adverb deck."

It was about half way through the contest that Anthony noticed his opponent slowing down. "Looks like someone _____ Verb - Base Form off more than they can chew." he thought to himself. Anthony was two hot dogs ahead and nowhere near full.

To make a _____ Adjective story short, Anthony won the hot dog eating contest. There was a method to his _____ Noun, but the audience was complete astonished at where all the dogs went because Anthony looked almost as skinny as when he started. Anthony let out a huge burp, collected his prize money, and headed home to split his winnings with his Uncle.