And there the sur	n burns crimson b	right,
And there the mo	oon-bird rests fron	n his flight
To cool in the pe	ppermint wind.
Let us leave this	place where the si	noke blows black
And the dark stre	et winds and bend	ds.
Past the pits when	re the asphalt flow	vers grow
We shall walk wi	ith a walk that is r	neasured and slow,	,
And watch where	e the chalk-white	arrows go
To the place whe	re the sidewalk er	nds.
Yes we'll walk w	ith a walk that is	measured and slow	,
And we'll go whe	ere the chalk-whit	e arrows go,
For the children,	they mark, and th	e children, they kno	ow
The place where	the sidewalk ends
