Feeding Team Mad Lib

There once was a           Noun           who traveled every day on a           Adjective                     color                     animal           to a city called           Adjective           Love. When she arrived in the city of           Adjective           Love, she saw many           Adjective           buildings on every corner. Each day she would           verb           her           animal           to the Seashore House. Inside she got to           verb           with all of her new friends who were called The Feeding Team. The Feeding Team was her favorite team at the Seashore House. They taught her how to           verb           food, and played fun games like           game          . They even taught her family how to play fun games and feed the           Noun           all of her bites. The           Noun           did such a           Adjective           job eating all of her bites that she got to graduate! The           Noun           was so excited to           verb           home on her           color                     animal          . She gave the Feeding Team a big hug and           verb           off into the sunset. She was going to miss the Feeding Team, but knew that she would see them again!
