

Good Luck from the Future Educators Club!

1. Noun
2. Noun
3. Proper Noun - Plural

Good Luck from the Future Educators Club!

I was studying for my (_____ Noun _____ Noun) exam in the ILC. I must have fallen asleep, woken to the sound of (horrible music). The lights were dim and as I (verb "-ed") into the hallway to look outside, I couldn't believe the (noun) on the Liberty Pole were lit and it was snowing AGAIN. I must be dreaming, snow in May in Rochester makes me (emotion).

Suddenly, my stomach growled like a loud (animal). I decide to head to the Center City Caf for some (food). To my surprise, the Atrium was decorated with balloons of fish and an orange (ocean animal). I reached for a Monroe Doctrine newspaper to check the date.

Before I touched the paper I heard some girls laughing like a (noun). They were stepping off the escalators, waving their (noun - _____ Proper Noun - Plural) at the Security guards. I followed them towards the bookstore where SEGA (adverb "-ly") decorated the lounge with black and gold (noun - plural).

Around the corner I (verb "-ed") in my tracks as I saw a member from the Future Educators Club wishing me GOOD LUCK on my (class subject) exam. Was this de ja vu? I blinked my (adjective) eyes and my head whipped to the side. I awoke to the smell of a (noun) on the MCC shuttle in the bus loop. It was all a (emotion) dream. I thanked the driver whom had a (adjective) smile and said, "You're ready to ace that exam!"

