Ask the Bird, a poem (focus on nouns and questions)

My bird, my birdy birdy, can you sing me a _____?

My human, my old and only human, I can sing you that.

Pretty bird, can you fly me a _____?

Man, my human, I can _____ you that.

Oh, baby bird, can you _____ me a morning _____?

Yes, humongous human, I can bring you that.

Then sweet, sweet bird, can you _____ to me the _____?

Of course, I can point to you that.

So then, my lovely bird, can you tell me your _____?

Certainly, my kind little keeper, I can _____ you that.

And your _____?

I can.

But first, my bird of _____, can you ask me for mine?

But second, my dear _____, can I really ask you that?
