A little girl and her turtle

There once was a little girl named Joyce who had a very small pet turtle. Her turtle's name was _____ Proper Noun

Sarah. _____ Proper Noun tank was deep enough water for him to swim in and also had little hills so _____ Proper Noun could get out of the water when he wanted to. Joyce took good care of _____ Proper Noun.

She fed him every day, changed his water regularly and made sure he was _____ Verb - Past Tense.

Sarah loved her big sister, but didn't like _____ Proper Noun. She thought _____ Proper Noun smelled bad. His water was never clean like the water from the faucet. All he did was _____ Verb - Base Form around. He wasn't fun like a dog or cuddly like a kitten.

One day, Joyce came home to find that _____ Proper Noun was gone. She looked everywhere for him - in her dresser drawers, under her _____ Noun, in her pillow case, in her pencil holder - but she couldn't find him.

She was very sad. Then Sarah came into her room and said, "I gave _____ Proper Noun a new home!" She took Joyce by the hand and _____ Verb - Past Tense her into the bathroom where _____ Proper Noun was safely in the cup that Grandma used to soak her dentures overnight. Joyce was happy _____ Proper Noun was OK and Sarah was happy that _____ Proper Noun was out of their room!
