The Real Story of the von Trapp Family

I first saw the movie The Sound of Music as a young child, probably in the late _____ _____, and Maria was so _____ and kind! As I grew older, more aware of world history, and saturated by viewing the movie at least once _____, I was struck and annoyed by the somewhat sanitized story of the von Trapp family it told, as well as the bad _____ and costumes. "It's not historically accurate!" I'd protest, a small archivist in the making. In the early _____ _____ I saw Maria von Trapp herself on Dinah Shore's television show, and _____, was she not like the _____ version of Maria! She didn't look like Julie, and she came across as a true force of nature. In thinking about the fictionalized movie version of Maria von Trapp as compared to this very real Maria von Trapp, I came to realize that the story of the von Trapp family was probably something closer to _____, and therefore much more interesting, than the movie led me to believe.

Part of the story of the real von Trapp family can be found in the records of the National Archives. When they fled the Nazi regime in Austria, the von Trapps traveled to _____. Their entry into the _____ and their subsequent applications for citizenship are _____ in the holdings of the National Archives and Records Administration.

Version

Maria von Trapp's certificate of arrival into Niagara Falls, NY, on December 30, 1942, authenticated that she arrived legally in the United States. (Records of District Courts of the United States, RG 21)

Fact from Fiction

While The Sound of Music was generally based on the first section of Maria's book The Story of the Trapp Family Singers (published in 1949), there were many alterations and omissions.
