Swamp Madlibs

Once Upon a Time, There was a Matope Race one and he loved to collect Noun - Plural. It was winter, so he went out and collected a ton of them to build a Adjective Noun. As soon as he got back to his home, he found that his Noun was nowhere to be found! He realized then that he had no idea where he was. He wandered through the Noun, until he found a Adjective, Adjective Verb - Present Tense Noun. Stumbling inside, he called out, "Interjection?" There was no response, so he decided to press forward. As he walked further in, the cave became Adverb - Comparative and Adverb - Comparative. Turning a corner, he saw a lovely fire, and beside it an Matope Race two. The Matope Race two smiled and said, 'I knew you would bring me my Noun - Plural'. Confused, the Matope Race one asked what the Matope Race two meant. The Matope Race two laughed and the Noun snuffed out. The Matope Race one dropped his Noun and tried to run, but the darkness consumed him and thundered, "You always Verb!" The Matope Race one woke up with a start. That was the last time he Verb - Past Tense random Noun water!
