The three little pigs gone wrong

Once upon a time there were three Adjective Noun. One Noun built a house of straw while the second Noun built his house with sticks. They built their houses very Adjective and then sang and danced all day because they were Adjective. The third Adjective Noun worked hard all day and built his house with bricks.

A Adjective Adjective Noun saw the two Adjective Noun while they danced and played and thought, "What juicy tender meals they will make!" He chased the two pigs and they ran and hid in their houses. The Adjective Adjective Noun went to the first house and huffed and puffed and blew the house down in minutes. The Adjective Adjective Noun ran to the second Noun house that was made of sticks. The Adjective Adjective Noun now came to this house and huffed and puffed and blew the house down in hardly any time. Now, the two little Noun were Adjective and ran to the third Noun house that was made of bricks.

The big bad Noun tried to huff and puff and blow the house down, but he could not. He kept trying for hours but the house was very strong and the Adjective pigs were safe inside. He tried to enter through the chimney but the third Adjective pig boiled a big pot of water and kept it below the chimney. The Noun fell into it and died.

The two Adjective Noun now felt sorry for having been so lazy. They too built their houses with bricks and lived Adjective ever after.
