Henry and Mudge and the Wild Wind

Henry and Henry's big _____ Mudge were playing outside one hot summer day. Suddenly the _____ blew so hard that it blew Henry's _____ away.

"Wow," said Henry. "Some wind."

Whoosh!

Mudge's _____ rippled. His _____ flapped. His _____ got all wet.

"Must be a thunderstorm coming," said Henry. "Uh-oh."

Henry didn't like thunderstorms. They made him jumpy. But they made Mudge even jumpier. Every time a

_____ came, Mudge did strange things. He whined. He walked around the kitchen _____ about a hundred times. He sat in the bathroom alone. He put his head between the couch _____.

The only jumpy thing Henry did was whistle a lot. Lightning would crash and _____ would boom and Henry would whistle. He whistled "jungle Bells." He whistled "Happy Birthday." He even whistled "The Star-Spangled _____ " (not very well).
