Drumming her heels in boredom on the floor Until a _____<sup>Color-Haired</sup> gentleman who saw She hated travelling produced a case Of _____<sup>Noun - Plural</sup>: 'Seven Germans run a race ...Unwind this maze, escape the lion's paw ...The princess must be lowered by her _____<sup>Body Part</sup> ...'The train entered a tunnel, shrieking, all The lights went _____<sup>Adjective</sup> and when he took her hand She was the princess in the tower and A lion faced her on the moonlit wall Who roared and reached and caught and held her there.
