RA Mad Libs: Duty

It was a/an Adjective Friday night on campus, and it was my night to be on duty. My co-workers were all at Location for a Event celebration, so I went on my first round alone. I was riding the elevator to the Number floor when suddenly the duty phone started to ring.

"Hello, this is the RA on duty," I Verb - Past Tense.

The voice on the other end of the phone replied, "Hi. I lost my Noun - Plural, can you let me into my Place in Res Hall?"

I agreed and went to the Place in Res Hall to get the master key. When I arrived at the resident's

Location I noticed that it smelled like Scent. Upon opening the door I immediately saw

Number bottles of alcohol, Number Color Noun - Plural, and the resident's roommate with a Noun in their hand. I quickly pulled the duty phone out of my Noun and called campus safety to alert them of the Adjective policy violations. Officer Campus Safety Officer

First Name quickly arrived to help and both of the residents ended up with a Number dollar fine. Later that night as I was finishing up the incident report one of my coworkers Verb - Past Tense into my room.

"How was duty?" they Verb - Past Tense.

After a moment of silence, I looked up and Verb - Past Tense. "Oh, you know... Just a typical night at

Name of your College or University."
