Super Scary Lost Episode!!!

Brace yourself, dear reader, for what I'm about to tell you will give you nightmares for _____ Number _____ weeks.

If you're fond of _____ Animated TV show _____, then I must warn you that you may never look at it in the same way again.

I was an intern at _____ Animation studio _____ Unit of time _____ ago. And when I made a certain discovery I swore I'd never even consider doing any work there again. You see, this all started with me overhearing some other employees talking in _____ Volume level _____ voices about a person called _____ Full Name of a Person _____, who apparently used to work at the studio as an _____ Occupation _____, having died after _____ Verb - Present ends in ING _____ a _____ Noun _____. And how _____ Creator of show _____ seemed to be hiding something, _____ Adverb _____ refusing to answer questions about an alleged unaired episode that had supposedly only been shown in one remote area in _____ Location _____. After some curious searches on _____ Search engine _____ that brought up nothing even hinting at anything of the sort happening, I dismissed this as a _____ Adjective _____ rumour. But a little later that day, while doing some _____ Chore _____, I found a _____ Means of storing video file _____ in the _____ Type of storage area _____. Written on it in _____ Colour _____ Sharpie was " _____ Animated TV show _____: Episode _____ Number _____. A deep, primal instinct within be was pleading me to leave it and _____ Verb - Base Form _____, but my sheer _____ Emotion _____ won over in the end, so I pocketed it and took it home with me, intending to put it back once I was done with it.

As soon as I put it in my _____ Electronic device _____, it _____ Verb - Past Tense _____. Since I'm good with technology, I was quickly able to deal with this problem and properly load the video file, aptly named _____Other character_____.avi. The opening sequence was the same as usual, except the voice singing the theme song sounded subtly _____Adjective_____, and _____Random character _____Item of clothing_____ was a weird shade of _____Colour_____. Plus, the animation seemed more sloppy than usual, and the resolution seemed rather glitchy. I quickly shrugged it off, cause hey, what if it was just a placeholder opening? Then the title card flashed up: "Goodbye _____Main character_____". This title made me feel _____Adjective_____, since it wasn't really a title you'd expect for a show like that. Nonetheless, I kept watching.

The episode opened with no music whatsoever. _____Main character_____ was sitting on a _____Furniture_____ in _____Location within show_____, looking vaguely _____Adjective_____. _____Pronoun_____ was holding a _____Noun_____ - what was its purpose, I wondered? The camera stayed on this shot for _____Number_____ minutes, _____Main character_____ gradually looking more _____Adjective_____. Just as I figured it'd be like this for a little while longer and was getting up to grab some _____Beverage_____, a deafeningly loud _____Noise_____ made me jump. When I looked back around, the scene had changed. _____Other character_____ was there, looking uncharacteristically _____Adjective_____. The camera stayed on this face for _____Number_____ seconds before _____Pronoun_____ said something muffled and unintelligible, as if the voice actor had recorded it through _____Number_____ layers of _____Fabric_____, sounding very _____Adjective_____. The camera cut back to _____Main character_____, who said something equally indecipherable in return, dropping the _____Noun_____. _____Other character _____Adverb_____ picked it up and jammed it in _____Main character _____Orifice - singular_____, causing _____Pronoun_____ to _____Verb - Base Form_____.

Something flashed on the screen, and I rewound and paused until I caught a single frame of a real person, their _____ Part of Body _____ Verb - Past Tense and a _____ Weapon lodged in their _____ Part of Body. I gasped.

Was this some kind of prank? I was determined to get to the end of this, so I still kept watching.

The camera stayed on _____ Main character _____ Verb - Present ends in ING for a further _____ Number minutes.

The focus flipped between that and _____ Other character staring... at _____ Main character? Or... the viewer? It was interspersed with flashes of static and glitching, too. What really unsettled me was how the eyes weren't drawn in their usual way - they were all hyper-realistic, and a grim, ugly shade of _____ Colour. Also, hyper-realistic blood was leaking out of both characters' _____ Orifice - plural. Everything was quiet during this time, besides what sounded like a faint, distant _____ Verb - Present ends in ING. It gradually got louder and louder, until I just had to turn it down - though it didn't make it any quieter. I couldn't bear another moment of this, but some kind of unseen force was making me keep watching. More grotesque real-life images flashed onto the screen as the camera slowly zoomed in on _____ Other character _____ Adjective face, but I was too _____ Adjective to try and pause on them. Then, as I swear I heard a poorly recorded music box rendition of _____ Song playing faintly in the background, _____ Other character picked up a hyper-realistic _____ Weapon, identical to one in the first gory freeze-frame. Then, _____ Main character turned to face the viewer, and said something, the voice acting so clear I could've sworn I was being talked to face-to-face, with _____ Emotion far more real than any kind of acting.

"You're already doomed... _____ Your name."

My heart froze. Surely this was just a _____ Adjective _____ coincidence? I quickly convinced myself it was, and kept watching as _____ Other character _____ plunged the _____ Weapon _____ into _____ Main character _____ Part of Body _____. As the whole screen turned _____ Colour _____ and static flashed, _____ Other character _____ had one last _____ Adjective _____ glance at the viewer before everything cut to black. The usual end credits were completely silent, with only a bit of illegible handwriting. The final shot was a gory hyper-realistic image of _____ Main character _____, looking _____ Adjective _____.

I was left shaking. Who could have made this? Did it have anything to do with what I'd overheard back at the studio? Whatever the case, I wanted answers. I posted the file on _____ Videosharing website _____, asking if anyone had seen anything like it before, but it was taken down _____ Number _____ minutes later, before I could get a single view or comment. Not only that, but I was totally banned from the website too.

I've hardly slept since then. I _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ the _____ Means of storing video file _____. I quit my internship at _____ Unit of time _____, but not before asking the first _____ Occupation _____ I could find what they knew about this unaired episode. All they told me was, "It's best you don't know any more. The truth would _____ Verb - Base _____ Form _____ you."

One more thing. If you start feeling like you're being _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ like I do, please let me know.
