

Grimm Brother's Rapunzel

1. Adjective
2. Adjective
3. Adjective
4. Noun
5. Noun
6. Adverb
7. Noun
8. Adverb
9. Adjective
10. Verb - Past Tense
11. Noun
12. Noun
13. Adverb
14. Adjective
15. Verb - Past Tense
16. Noun
17. Verb - Past Tense
18. Verb - Past Participle
19. Verb - Past Tense
20. Noun
21. Adjective
22. Verb - Past Participle

Grimm Brother's Rapunzel

There was once a man and a woman who had long in vain wished for a child. These people had a little window at the back of their house from which a _____ Adjective garden can be seen. It was however surrounded by a _____ Adjective wall and no one dared to go into it because it belonged to an enchantress who had great power and was dreaded by all the world. One day the woman saw a bed which was planted with the most beautiful rampion, Rapunzel, and it looked so _____ Adjective and green that she longed for it. This desire increased everyday and she knew she could not get any of it so she grew depressed and miserable. The man who loved her will bring her some of the rampion. At _____ Noun, he jumped over the wall into the garden of the enchantress, clutched a handful of rampion, and took it to his wife. It tasted so good that she wanted more everyday, so her _____ Noun had to go back and get it. The next time he clambered down the wall he was _____ Adverb afraid for he saw the enchantress standing right before him. How can you dare she said, descend into my garden like a thief. You shall suffer for it. He then explained that his wife would have died without it. The enchantress allowed her anger to be softened, and said to him, if the case be as you say, I will allow you to take away with you as much rampion as you need only I make one condition, you must give me the child that your wife will bring into the world. It shall be treated, and I will care for it like a _____ Noun. The man and his wife had a child at last, and the witch took the child and named her Rapunzel. When she was twelve years old the enchantress locked her up into a tower, which had neither stairs nor door, but quite at the top was a little window. When the enchantress wanted to go in, she placed herself _____ Adverb it and cried, "Rapunzel, Rapunzel, Let down your hair to me!" Rapunzel had magnificent _____ Adjective hair, fine as spun gold. After a year or two, a came to pass that the King's son rode through the forest and passed by the tower. Then he heard a song, which was so charming that he stood still and listened. It was Rapunzel who sang to pass her time letting her sweet voice resound. The king's son wanted to climb up to her, and looked for the door of the tower, but none was to be found. Everyday, he went out into the forest and listened to it. Once when he was standing behind the tree, he saw that an enchantress _____ Verb - Past Tense there, and he heard how she cried for Rapunzel. The next day when it began to grow _____ Noun, he went to the _____ Noun and cried, Rapunzel, Rapunzel, Let down your hair. Immediately the hair fell down and the King's son climbed up. At first Rapunzel was terribly frightened when she saw a man. He told her that he loved her dearly, and wanted to marry her. Rapunzel then lost her fear, and when she saw how young and handsome he is, she knew that he would love her more than old dame gothel does. Rapunzel said yes! I do not know how to get down, so bring pieces of a ladder everyday you come, Rapunzel said. She _____ Adverb mentioned how light the king's son is to carry up with her hair and the dame gothel got angry that she had deceived her. In her anger, she clutched Rapunzel's _____ Adjective braids, and _____ Verb - Past Tense them off with a pair of scissors. The enchantress took poor Rapunzel into a _____ Noun where she had to live in great grief and misery. On the same day, the enchantress fastened the braids of hair, which she had cut off, to the hook of the window, and when the king's son came and cried for Rapunzel, she let the hair down. The king's son ascended, but instead of finding his dearest Rapunzel, he found the enchantress, who gazed at him with wicked looks. "Rapunzel is gone and you will never see her again" said the witch mockingly. The king's son was sad and in his despair he leapt down from the tower. He _____ Verb - Past Tense with his life and the thorns into which he fell _____ Verb - Past Participle his eyes. He wandered quite blind throughout the forest and wept over the loss of his dearest wife. He roamed about in misery for some years and at length he came to the desert where Rapunzel _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ in _____ Noun _____. He heard a voice and it seemed so _____ Adjective _____ to him that he went towards it and when he approached, he found Rapunzel. Two of her tears wetted his eyes and they grew clear again and he could see again. He led her to his kingdom where he was joyfully received and they lived for a long time afterwards, happy and _____ Verb - Past _____ Participle _____.