When I to _____ Part of Body conjure thy holy face,

I should but _____ Verb - Base Form for fear of ravening Time:

With jaws spread to deliver his disgrace,

Keen _____ Noun to carve the _____ Adjective source of my rhyme,

And e'en the phoenix crushd in his claw,

Though thou art Nature's finest wrought treasure,

With thy youth shall hungry Time fill his maw

And starve mine eye of thy gilded pleasure

E'en now, each speeding year threatens decay

Yet

I slake my fear in memory of this:

Though Nature cannot grant us constant May

All beauty's rose remains in verse timeless.

And so in these lines I form a feast

Thy beauty for posterity to reap
