

ertrtrt

1. Adjective
2. Proper Noun - Plural

ertrtrt

It was February 14th once again and (brides name) _____ Adjective _____ it would be the (adjective) one yet.

Wearing a (adjective) little dress, she waited outside for (grooms name) to arrive in his shiny new (noun). Her (noun) beat fast as soon as she saw him and they shared a (adjective) kiss. After kissing for quite some time, the couple realized they were a bit late and (verb) to make their dinner reservation. Once they arrived at their chic Italian restaurant, they ordered some (adjective) champagne, filet mignon and (noun). After dessert, (grooms name) said he had a surprise - a (adjective) necklace that she had always wanted. He asked her to close her (noun) _____ Proper Noun - Plural _____ he put the necklace around her neck. When (brides name) opened her eyes, her man was (verb) on one knee. She looked down at her neck and on the chain was a (adjective) ring. Will you marry me? He said. YES my love of course, she replied. Grooms name kissed her passionately and vowed to love her for the rest of their (nouns). And they both lived (adjective) ever after.