detective Jason

Hi I'm detective           Proper Noun          . I'm the           Adjective           detective in town. One day a scared little kid named           Proper Noun           said a           Noun           escaped the zoo and went in some toxic goo and now he is setting fire to a science fair down main street. Jumping lizards! This is a job for the fire department. Then the rhino came in here and the little kid died. I was upset so I karate           Verb - Past Tense           its head and candy came out so in conclusion this is our           Adjective           case ever.
