The Princess and the Pea

Once upon a time there was a Noun who wanted to Verb - Base Form a princess; but she would have to be a real princess. He Verb - Past Tense all over the Noun to find one, but nowhere could he get what he wanted. There were princesses enough, but it was difficult to find out whether they were real ones . There was always something about them that was not as it should be. So he came home again and was emotion , for he would have liked very much to have a real princess. One evening a Adjective storm came on; there was Noun and Noun , and the Noun poured down in torrents. Suddenly a Verb - Present ends in ING was heard at the city gate, and the old king went to open it. It was a princess standing out there in front of the gate. But, good gracious! what a sight the rain and the wind had made her look. The liquid ran down from her hair and clothes; it ran down into the toes of her shoes and out again at the heels. And yet she said that she was a real princess. Well, we'll soon find that out, thought the Adjective queen. But she said nothing, went into the room , took all the bedding off the bedstead , and laid a pea on the bottom; then she took number mattresses and laid them on the pea, and then number eider-down beds on top of the mattresses. On this the princess had to Verb - Base Form all night. In the morning she was asked how she had slept. "Oh, very Adverb !" said she. "I have Adverb closed my Part of Body all night. Heaven only knows what was in the bed, but I was lying on something Adjective , so that I am color and color all over my body. It's Adjective !" Now they knew that she was a real princess because she had felt the pea right through the mattresses and the eider-down beds. Nobody but a real princess could be as Adjective as that. So the prince took her for his wife, for now he knew that he had a real princess; and the pea was put in the museum, where it may still be seen, if no one has _____ Verb - Past Tense _____ it.

There, that is a true story.
