The Plane Tree

Two _____, _____ in the noonday sun, sought the shade of a widespreading
_____ to rest. As they lay looking up among the _____ leaves, they saw that it was a Plane
_____.

"How useless is the Plane!" said one of _____. "It _____ no fruit whatever, and only serves to litter the ground with leaves."

"_____ creatures!" said a voice from the _____ Tree. "You lie here in my _____ shade, and yet you say I am _____! Thus ungratefully, O Jupiter, do men receive their blessings!"

Our best blessings are often the least appreciated.
